

To whom it may concern:

Please let me take a moment of your busy day to speak well of Alex Albino, one of the most delightful and talented Web Developers I have ever met. My name is Ron Dowell and I am the owner of Fast Server LLC; an Information Technology firm located in Southern Oregon. At Fast Server, we strive to serve our clients computer network and web development needs with very high standards of honesty and upscale prestige. It is in this regard that I employed Alex as our lead Web Developer.

Alex, on a daily basis, demonstrated above average innovation in his programming skill sets while continuing on a regiment of on-time task completion; remaining under budget. Alex also possesses a broad range of design skills, ranging from production graphic design to 3D innovations that stimulated the imaginations and conversations of all those who happened by.

Another outstanding feature of Alex Albino is his sparkling personality. Alex is a complete delight to work with. He has such a bright shine that he kept moral at Fast Server at an all time high. Further, Alex embraces an ethic unseen in most employees. He holds his morals close, while listening to others in the complete absence of judgment. This was a profound attribute as our firm services opposing political forces.

Finally, Alex's most endearing quality is his love for teaching. Fast Server promotes public health efforts by donating support to the JosephineCountyMethTaskForce.org website by employing youth interns. Alex could step out of his coding role and offer youth instruction with profound success. He will be missed by all who encountered him.

I have enjoyed this opportunity to speak well of Alex Albino. He has demonstrated to me an unseen quality in so many different facets of human experience. But above all, he is an incredibly gifted and motivated computer programmer. I wish him well in all his endeavors and recommend to you that he be involved with yours.
